

Craft Cocktails!

The Drink:

Celebrate the season's changing weather with a new craft cocktail from award-winning Chicago bartender Julia Momose. Developed exclusively for Microplane, Momose's "Not-So Dark and Stormy" captures early spring's mercurial temperatures by combining the cool and refreshing tastes of lime and mint with the warmth of ginger and rum.

Not-So Dark and Stormy (Serves 1)

- 1/2 of a lime
- 7-10 mint leaves
- 3 ounces Pepsi 1893 Ginger Cola
- 1/2 ounces dark rum (For a non-alcoholic version, omit the rum)

In a cocktail shaker, muddle the lime and mint leaves with a pinch of salt. Add the ginger cola and rum. Top with ice and shake until cold and frothy. Strain into a copper mug. Top off with crushed ice and a splash of ginger cola. Garnish with a lime shell and mint sprig.

Use with the New Microplane® Ultimate Bar Tool

"Microplane's Ultimate Bar Tool is like the Swiss Army Knife of cocktail gadgets for the home cocktail maker. I especially like the ergonomic handle and the channel knife feature. It cuts away just the right amount of zest, without too much of the pith." - Julia Momose

Inspired by America's craft cocktail renaissance, Microplane's new Ultimate Bar Tool allows mixologists to muddle, stir, cut, strain and create garnishing twists and peels. From top to bottom, this easy and fun tool combines multiple gadgets into one without all the clutter. On one end, the tool contains a sharp edge peeler blade for creating flaming citrus twists. On the opposite end, the stainless steel blade offers a hole on top for stirring drinks, holes along the long edge for straining, a partial paring knife to score and cut and a channel knife for medium twists. The protective sleeve that covers the blade also has a serrated tip for mashing and muddling fruit. Perfect for all drink recipes, the Ultimate Bar Tool works with a variety of citrus fruit.

Unique Attributes and Characteristics

- Etched stainless steel blade
- Soft-grip handle
- Clear protective blade covers and caps included
- Dishwasher safe/Hand wash cover
